

READING AREA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Dear Prospective Early Admissions Student:

Thank you for your interest in Reading Area Community College! RACC offers you the opportunity to complete college credits while you are still in high school. If you're a motivated, hardworking student interested in enhancing your high school curriculum, we would like to invite you to get started on your college courses early at Reading Area Community College. We offer the option of taking classes online and/or on-campus. Students have access to all the resources on our beautiful campus.

You will joining a growing number of students who will be getting a jump start on college by saving time and tuition dollar, along with having college experiences that will help you stand out on college applications. You can chose from over 50 associate degree programs, many of which will transfer seamlessly to bachelor's degree programs through articulation agreements.

Early admission will be determined based on a thorough review of your academic readiness, which will include evaluation of standardized test scores and high school transcripts. Because you will be a college student while in high school, you need to complete a FERPA waiver form, which grants permission to your parents and/or guardian to talk to RACC staff. Also, we ask for you to sign the rights and responsibility form to acknowledge that RACC staff, fellow students, and faculty will treat you as an adult. These documents are on our website.

With the help of an Enrollment Services Coordinator, you and your high school guidance counselor will develop an academic plan that will allow you to graduate from high school and fulfill your early college goals. If you have any questions or need additional information from an Enrollment Services Coordinator, please call 610-372-4721, extension 6224. Please indicate that you are interested in the Early Admissions program.

I wish you well in your pursuit of higher education and hope that Reading Area Community College can be a part of this exciting time in your academic career.

Sincerely,

Kathy Cunningham
Director of Admissions & Enrollment Services

READING AREA COMMUNITY COLLEGE
DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION (FERPA)
(Please use blue or black ink pen ONLY)

Disclosure of Information from Education Records to Parents of Students Attending Reading Area Community College

Recently, many questions have arisen concerning the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Acts (FERPA), the federal law that protects the privacy of students' education records.

What are parents' rights and students' rights under FERPA?

At the K-12 school level, FERPA provides parents with the right to inspect and review their children's education records, the right to seek to amend information in the records they believe to be inaccurate, misleading, or an invasion of privacy, and the right to consent to the disclosure of personally identifiable information from their children's education records. When a student turns 18 year old or enters a postsecondary institution at any age, these rights under FERPA transfer from the student's parents to the student. Under FERPA, a student to whom the rights have transferred is known as an "eligible student." Although the law does say that the parents' rights afforded by FERPA transfer to the "eligible student," FERPA clearly provides ways in which an institution can share education records on the student with his or her parents.

While concerns have been expressed about the limitations on the release of information, there are instances listed below where the school can disclose information.

Can a school disclose information to parents in a health or safety emergency?

FERPA permits schools to disclose information from education records to parents if a health or safety emergency involves their son or daughter.

Can parents be informed about students' violation of alcohol and controlled substance rules?

Another provision in FERPA permits a college or university to let parents/guardians of students under the age of 21 know when the student has violated any law or policy concerning the use or possessions of alcohol or a controlled substance.

Can a school disclose law enforcement unit records to parents and the public?

Additionally, under FERPA, schools may disclose information from "law enforcement unit records" to anyone – including parents or federal, State or local law enforcement authorities – without the consent of the eligible student. Many colleges and universities have their own campus security units. Records created and maintained by these units for law enforcement purposes are exempt from the privacy restrictions of FERPA and can be shared with anyone.

Can school officials share their observations of students with parents?

Nothing in FERPA prohibits a school official from sharing with parents information that is based on that official's personal knowledge or observation and that is not based on information contained in an education record. Therefore, FERPA would not prohibit a teacher or other school official from letting a parent know of their concern about their son or daughter that is based on their personal knowledge or observation.

Can a student allow additional disclosure with parents?

FERPA prohibits an additional disclosure unless the student provides consent prior to the additional disclosure and the student must state the purpose of the disclosure.
